Brittany M. Bloam is a Partner in the firm's Litigation & Dispute Resolution Practice Group. She represents clients facing a variety of legal issues, including land use and real estate matters, complex commercial disputes, and employment cases.

Brittany works to understand her clients' missions and delivers diligent, responsive service that balances their legal and economic objectives. She is particularly interested in the real estate development and construction industries. Her practice includes helping owners and developers to navigate land use and zoning approvals. She works closely with her clients to develop and implement land use plans. She handles public meetings and hearings, as well as preparation of briefs and other pleadings, seeing projects from the initial planning stages through appeals.

Brittany also handles a variety of real estate litigation claims, including partition actions, eminent domain, matters, and landlord-tenant disputes. She represents property owners in property tax assessment appeals and exemption applications.

In her employment practice, Brittany has brokered resolutions for her clients facing employment discrimination claims, as well as in disputes over breaches of employment and non-compete agreements. She conducts internal investigations, and represents employers in front of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Pennsylvania Human Rights Commission.

Brittany was chosen by her peers as a Pennsylvania Super Lawyers Magazine "Rising Star" for the years 2016 – 2021 and a Best Lawyers "One to Watch" in 2023.
