Jason M. Yarbrough is a Partner and Chair of the firm's Real Estate Litigation Section, and a member of the firm's Construction Law, Creditors' Rights & Bankruptcy, Energy, Utilities & Mineral Rights and Litigation and Dispute Resolution Practice Groups.

Mr. Yarbrough frequently represents clients in complex commercial, real estate and construction disputes. His real estate litigation practice includes disputes involving the acquisition and development of real property, landlord tenant disputes, property rights, property tax assessment appeals, real estate tax exemption proceedings, land use and quiet title disputes, partition actions, eminent domain and foreclosure proceedings. In his construction practice, Mr. Yarbrough represents owners, developers, contractors, architects, and engineers in disputes arising out of both public and private construction projects. He has litigated claims in state and federal courts, and against state agencies and the federal government.

Mr. Yarbrough graduated magna cum laude from the University of Notre Dame and the University of Pittsburgh School of Law with Honors, where he served as Research Editor for the University of Pittsburgh Law Review. Mr. Yarbrough has been included in The Best Lawyers in America® for Litigation – Real Estate since the 2022 edition. He was previously selected as one of Pennsylvania Super Lawyers® Rising Stars from 2010-2018, and one of 38 Pennsylvania attorneys receiving the honor of "Lawyer on the Fast Track" by The Legal Intelligencer in 2013.

Mr. Yarbrough is admitted to practice law in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and numerous federal courts, and is a member of Council for the Construction Section of the Allegheny County Bar Association.
